The Omaha News thinks that the John Sherman movement is no pop-gun affair.

Ex Governor Sprague has adopted the shot gun policy. Senator Conkling never did believe in it.

There will be an annual encampment of the veteran soldiers of Walworth county, at Lakeland Park, Delavan, beginning on Wednesday, August 20th, and will continue three days. All soldiers are invited.

Horatio J. Sprague, of Massachusetts, has been consul at Gibraltar thirty-one years. He is of that class which never dies and will never resign. He seems to have gone there to stay—as long as Gibralter stands.

General Grant has done Asia to his heart's content, and will start for the United States during the last week in August, and will arrive in San Francisco about the middle of September. He will then have finished the most remarkable tour around the world ever made by man.

Charley Foster estimates the Ohio vote this fall at 675,000, which will be 100,000 more than were ever cast at a gubernatorial election. Foster is shaking up the dry bones in that State, and is doing more hard, effective work than any previous candidate. He can hardly fail to be elected.

General Sherman is reported to have said recently that "the nomination of General Grant for the Presidency depended entirely upon the course of the Democrats, that if they showed a disposition to rip up the amendments and make trouble, Grant would be nominated and the North solidified in his favor." The elections this fall will prove a wet blanket to the Democrats so far as ripping up any constitutional amendments are concerned. The work of the extra session will be rebuked at the polls in the North.

And the Madison Democrat whose cheek has no limit, tries to make out the Democratic party made resumption possible, when the fact is that every Democratic paper in the United States, the Democrat included, and every Democratic platform adopted since the resumption act was passed, tried to make resumption impossible. Every Democratic in Congress except Senator Bayard of Maryland, and every Democratic campaign speaker East and West, and North and South, spoke against it, and demanded its immediate repeal.
These are facts and the Madison Democrat, with all its brazen effrontery and pretended righteousness, can't prove that they are not. It would be just as sensible for the Democrat to declare that the North was in rebellion from 1861-5, and that the South put it down, as to declare that the Democratic party made resumption possible.

Another batch of gossip relative to the Sprague-Conkling affair is published in the Gazette. Like all news of that charter, it is given for what it is worth. Very little dependence can be placed on newspaper reports concerning social scandals.
They are usually such a "rich find" for hungry news gatherers and reporters, that the faintest shadow of a scandal, looms up mountain high before them. In this case, it is far more than probable, that the whole thing will end in a bubble. Of course there is no criminality charged, and the shot-gun affair wants confirmation.
The truth of the whole matter is that ex-Governor Sprague was drunk and Senator Conkling too indiscreet. The ex-Governor is very irritable, and is galloped by his fall from powerful influence to comparative poverty. He removed to Narragansett Pier this summer on the score of economy.
Conkling was there with hundreds of others to spend a few weeks. While the ex-Governor was absent Conkling went to the Sprague residence, and on the return of the former, found his wife and the New York Senator sitting on the piazza engaged in conversation. The report is, that maddened by this circumstance, the ex-Governor seized his gun and drove the Senator from the premises. This is the long and the short of the "scandal."

Secretary Everts has taken a great deal of care to ascertain from our consuls abroad the condition of the working classes in Europe, and the result should make every American proud of his country. Inquiries were made in regard to the rate of wages paid to every class of laborers, the cost of living to those classes, the state of trade, and business habits and systems. In England, for instance, bricklayers receive on an average, $3.12 per week, while in New York the wages run from $12 to $15. Shoemakers in England receive $7.20 on an average, but in New York the wages are between $12 and $18. In all other classes of labor there is about the same difference in favor of the workmen in this country. The price of food in Great Britain, according to the reports of the consuls, are fully 25 per cent higher than at New York, and nearly 50 per cent higher than at Chicago. Fresh meat cannot be purchased in England only at prices ranging from 15 to 20 cent per pound, while it is from 8 to 13 cents here.

There is the same disparity in the prices of all other food. The average monthly wages paid to farm hands without board or lodging, is $10, or $8 with board and lodging. The price paid to farm hands in the West, with board and lodging, varies from $14 to $20 which is much more than at any time previous to the war. In Germany, the condition of the laboring classes is wretched and deplorable in the extreme, on account of the depression in business. The wages paid to mechanics in Germany are not one half what they are in the United States; and they are much lower than those paid in France or Belgium. The wages paid farm hands in Germany vary from $2.75 to $3.50 per week, without board, and average $1.83 with board, while the women receive on an average 60 cents per week with board. In France, a more favorable condition of the working people is found. The people are extremely economical and business is not so depressed as in other European countries. The wages are very little higher than those paid in Germany or England, but the French farm hand is rigidly economical, and even with his small wages, in many cases manages to become a landed proprietor. It may be interesting to our American workmen to illustrate more in detail the income and expenses of a French farm hand.
A married man who boards and lodges himself, may earn $150 in a year, divided up as follows: The husband's wages $80; wife's wages $30; children's wages $40. The cost of living to such a family, say of five persons, is as follows: Rent.....$10.00
Bread.....$2.50
Meat.....$2.00
Vegetables.....$1.00
Wine and beer.....$2.50 Total.....$18.00

Here we have it that a French laborer aided by his wife and children, can earn $150.00 in a year, and will spend $18.00 of that amount in living in the most economical manner. Think of an American farm hand and his family compelled to work for that amount and being subjected to such rigid economy! And yet the Frenchman is content with his lot, and is never too despondent to shout—"Vive la France!" To sum up the whole matter it is this:
Economy in France, drunkenness and hard times in England, and poverty and dis-economy in Germany.

A Daughter's Surgery.
A middle-aged lady, who resides near Wellers, Pa., was afflicted by that terrible disease, scrofula, the seat of the disorder being in her head. She suffered terrible agony from the pressure of the diseased cranium upon the brain, and her physician decided that the only means of relief was the removal of the top of her skull.
He never attempted the operation, however, fearing she might die from the effects. The woman continued to suffer, and her head grew so large that she was unable to move, and she was finally determined to take the risk and perform the operation. He was considerable of a mechanical genius, and he soon constructed a fine saw for the purpose, the material used being wire from an old hoop skirt. After he had finished the instrument, although he had no surgical knowledge, he began the operation of sawing through the skull at a point about two inches below the summit of the cranium.

After working some time at the operation the young man was taken ill and died.
After his death the lady's daughter, a young girl of nineteen or twenty, decided to continue the work, and did so, successfully removing the top of her mother's head, relieving the terrible pain, and probably saving her life. She was occupied several days in the operation, which was a delicate and dangerous one, ordinarily only to be performed by the most skilled surgeon.
The instrument had been driven too deep and penetrated the delicate covering of the brain, instant death would have resulted, and that some accident of the sort did not occur is one of the most astonishing facts about the matter. She undertook the operation as a desperate resort, and the exercise of nerve which she displayed was wonderful. Once, while working she fainted, and frequently she would throw down the saw, declaring she could go no further. Her mother whose enormous will power was not to be wondered at, always urged her to proceed, saying, "If I can stand it, you can do the same."
The only way of saving her life. No anesthetic was used, and the afflicted woman carefully watched and directed the operation.

As stated instantaneous relief followed the removal of the diseased bone, although the disease was not eradicated. The removed bone was replaced by a silver cap, which was secured by a silk cap.
The operation was performed over six months ago, and the lady was, at last, at least, somewhat, alive and cheerful, though, of course, confined to a limited sphere of action. She took a very philosophical view of the affair, and seems grateful that relief was afforded although she will remain an invalid for life.

A Very Beneficial Bath.
From the Harrisburg (Pa.) Patriot.
A shoemaker, named Winters, residing in the vicinity of Broad street, between Fulton and Margaret streets, lost his hearing during an engagement in which he participated in the late rebellion, and was much annoyed in consequence. A few evenings ago he went into the river for the purpose of bathing, and while thrusting his head under the surface of the water he thought he heard a loud report. Instantly raising his head, he was surprised to find water running from one of his ears, and a little while afterward was astonished to find that his hearing had been restored. The only inconvenience he now finds from the occurrence is the fact that persons who have known him for years still continue to talk loud or about at him, when in reality he hears as well as any body else since the night he took the bath in the river.

"Below Par."
That reminds me of a little anecdote, is what every bright man has heard over and over again, as his memory has been jogged by some one telling a story. When good stories and ready repartees are going on, one witty little thing is sure to suggest another. Thus we thought, a day or two ago, when reading in an evening paper, that Charles Sumner was no musician, and that a lady friend once told him that if he was to buy a music box set to "Old Hundred," she did not believe that he could make it play more than seventy-five." It was doubtless something in the same vein that prompted old Mrs. Rothchild, when ninety-seven, to say to her physician, "Doctor, you must keep me up for three years more at least; it would be creditable for a Rothchild to go off under par."—Editor's

SPRAGUE-CONKLING.

Yesterday's Developments in the Alleged Scandal at Narragansett Pier—The Affair the All-Absorbing Topic at the National Capital.

New York, Aug. 12.—The Times has a long dispatch from Narragansett Pier, giving an account of the Conkling-Sprague affair, which substantially agrees with the account sent last night.

The World has some additional views in its dispatches, and a telegram from Washington says: "The outbreak is traced back by persons here familiar with all the parties to a misunderstanding of old date between Sprague and Conkling, which it appears to have originated in the fact that Conkling was called in to protect the interests of the children of Mrs. Sprague in some real estate in this city over which Governor Sprague has no control. This misunderstanding has long been notorious here, though little attention has been drawn to it, as Senator Conkling is a man of retired habits, and ex-Governor Sprague has been seldom at the capital. Senator Conkling last winter undertook as a lawyer, to free Edward, Chief Justice Chase's residence, about a mile out of the city, from taxes and interest, and had a quarrel in consequence of default in their payment. The estate, it is understood, belongs principally to Mrs. Sprague's children. Mrs. Sprague had the management of it, and lived on it with the children, and apart from her husband, who has lived in Rhode Island since his death, she began the operation of sawing through the skull at a point
the cranium.

When ex-Governor Sprague left Pier on Sunday of last week, it is said that he went to Newport with the avowed intention of forcing a quarrel upon Conkling there, but missed his man by a minute opportunity. It is stated that Conkling, Lord P.
Morton, whose guest the Senator was, were in the Postoffice waiting for the mail to open. After they had received their letters Conkling went away on the next boat to Narragansett Pier. Just after Senator Conkling left Newport, Postoffice ex-Governor Sprague appeared there, and went to have walked into the Postmaster's room, talking freely enough, but not apparently suffering from any undue excitement. On the contrary, he appears to have behaved more rationally than his is wont, for ex-Governor Sprague's best friends say that lately his conversations had been very disconnected. Now the very servants, who know that the difficulty on Friday was with Senator Conkling, and who know also that ex-Governor Sprague followed the Senator, and was heard to threaten the latter in the street, are making mountains out of molehills, and keeping the most insane versions of this alleged scandal prominently before the public.

KILLED.
MILWAUKEE, August 12.—A 5-year-old son of Frank Agenta was run over by a street car near the corner of Reed street and National avenue to-day, and instantly killed. The driver of the car, Julius Kettenger, has been arrested on a charge of manslaughter. The accident is attributable to the fact that none of our street cars carry conductors.

THE FEVER.
Twenty-two New Cases and Seven Deaths at Memphis—A Stampede From Corinth.

MEMPHIS, August 12.—Twenty-two new cases were reported to the Board of Health for the twenty-four hours ending at 6 p. m., and seven deaths.

The Hon John Johnson, Superintendent of Quarantine, and representative of the State Board of Health, as soon as 1,000 barrels of lime and 1,000 gallons of zinc iron, which have been ordered, is received will begin the disinfection of the city.

THE STORM.
A Severe Mail Storm at Stevens Point.

STEVENS POINT, August 12.—The most severe hail storm ever witnessed in this vicinity passed over this city about six o'clock last night. The oldest inhabitants say they never saw anything like it before.
Glass was in good demand this morning, there having been considerable broken throughout the city. The storm having come from the northeast, the windows on that side of the buildings were nearly all broken. The machine shops of the Wisconsin Central road lost about seven hundred panes. The skylights in Carli's and also in Dwy's galleries were entirely demolished. Fruit, corn and vegetables were nearly destroyed. I don't hear of any serious damage outside of the city. It seems to have been confined to a very small space.

STEWART'S BODY.

The New York Papers Again Working Up the Great Grave-Robbery.

New York, August 12.—The Herald says: "It will startle the community to learn that the perpetration of the crime of robbing the dead millionaire's grave, which took place on the 7th of November last, has neither been discovered, nor the crime itself laid to rest by a compromise.
Various statements have found their way into print during the past few days that the relatives and friends of the late A. T. Stewart have recovered the remains, and that the sum of $50,000 had been paid as a ransom for the great merchant's body. No later than yesterday a reporter of the Herald was assured at Saratoga by a gentleman high in the confidence of the head of the firm of A. T. Stewart & Co., that no such barter had taken place; that, in fact, the body had not been returned, and that a cent had not been paid to the gray-robbers by Judge Hilton, Mr. Stewart, or any agent of theirs. Judge Hilton had returned to New York, and could not be seen at his residence late last evening."

OBITUARY.

GENEVA LAKE, Aug. 12.—Col Harvey Church, a well known citizen, died to-day at the age of 82 years. Deceased formerly resided at Placid, N. Y., was a Colonel of the State militia, and served during the war of 1812, having enlisted at the age of 17, and was the father of a daughter, Mrs S K Warren, and a wife.

GENERAL WAYNE'S TWO GRAVES.

His Death and Burial at Erie—The Second Discovery of His Grave—Slight Respect for the Bones of the Old Hero.

It is a matter of history that General Anthony Wayne, the hero of Stony Point, Ticonderoga, Germantown, Valley Forge and many other well fought fields in the revolutionary war, died at Erie on the 15th of December, 1796. After Wayne had conquered the Indians and formed a permanent treaty, his army was disbanded and the various companies sent where they were needed most to keep the redskins quiet. In June, 1795, one of these companies under command of Captain Russell Bissell was sent to Erie, and in July following timber was cut on Garrison Hill from which a fort and barracks were built.
Captain Bissell, and continued to erect the attics of which were fitted up as residences for families connected with the garrison. After the army was disbanded, the commander prepared at once to retire to private life and again settled down on his farm in Waynesboro, Chester county, Pa. With this determination, then, be left the sloop Detroit, at Detroit, and set sail for Presque Isle. While on the way he was seized with gout, and after tedious voyage landed at Erie, in a feeble and dying condition. At his request he was removed to the attic of the northwestern block house, built under his orders by Captain Bissell, and continued to grow worse until he died on the 15th day of December, 1796. Wayne was at that time acting as commander-in-chief of the armies of the United States, holding a commission from President Washington, and with his latest breath the old hero requested that his remains be buried at the foot of the flagstaff. The wish was marked out by the Indians, and the grave was marked with a plain stone bearing two simple letters, "A. W."

The late Captain Daniel Dobbins for some time occupied a building erected in the center of the grounds, built for the commanding officer, and was living there as late as 1859, when Wayne's body was exhumed. After the post had been discontinued the grounds were rented to a farmer, and as the stone at the head of the General's grave had fallen down, it was removed to a fence near by and the mound was plowed over and planted with potatoes with the balance of the field, and thus the exact locality of the grave was lost sight of. When Colonel Isaac Wayne came here to remove the bones of Chester county, in 1809, the spot could not be found for some time, but it was at last pointed out by two boys. The body was taken up, but as the flesh remained in a remarkable state of preservation the process of boiling and scrapping it from the bones was resorted to, after which the bones were packed in a box which was fastened upon a pig, when Colonel Wayne started through the wilderness to his home in Philadelphia. The remains of the deceased warrior's body (flesh, muscles, etc.) was placed in the collar, and with the knives used in scraping it was returned to the old vault at the foot of the flag staff, and thus it is that General Wayne may be said to have two graves.

In the winter of 1813-'14, after Buffalo was burned by the British, the military authorities deeming the old block houses unsafe for protection to the harbor, had a new one erected on the hill west of the old ones, and another on the peninsula, both of which were afterwards burned. The last remnant of the old buildings erected by Captain Bissell disappeared about 1830, and the block house on the hill in October, 1853.

In the time advanced and the buildings fell in decay and ruin, the resting place of the fleshy part of Anthony Wayne was again lost sight of, the oldest inhabitant, although professing a knowledge of the whereabouts of the grave, could not point out the spot; each man having an opinion of his own and so two persons agreeing as to the exact locality. Thus matters stood until the centennial year, when (the writer being usually mild) Mr. Lawrence Myer, the keeper of the city hospital on Garrison Hill, in prospecting for relics, came upon the long neglected and grass-grown burial place in this wise: On the 7th of January, 1875, in making a slight excavation in a depression of the soil he struck a stone wall, which he soon found had been a vault. Supposing that he had found the long sought for well, which, according to tradition, had been filled with gold and costly gems and buried for safe keeping, Mr. Myer imparted the facts to the city health officer, Dr. E. W. Germer, and the words were hardly uttered before the doctor, rubbing his hands with glee, jumped up and shouted, "Why, man, it is Wayne's grave you have found!" And so it proved.

On the 19th of the same month heavy cross timbers of chestnut wood were exhumed lying a few feet south of the vault. In the foot of the flag staff rested, for there was the mortal and decayed body.
Upon making further investigations in the vault, a great number of pieces of the coffin were obtained together with four large knives, some military buttons, etc. There was also a large quantity of black, mucky material which it was adjusted to the flesh and muscles which had been removed from the bones. These were regarded as proof-positive, but to make assurances doubly sure, the pieces of the coffin were placed together when the brass nails in the wood revealed the following intelligence:

"A. W."
15 Dec. 1796."

From that time the grave has been decorated by the discoverer and through the persistent efforts of Dr. Germer and others an appropriation has been obtained for the erection of a monument, the corner stone of which was formally laid by G. A. R. on the 30th of July.

Robinson Crusoe's Island.

From a highly interesting private letter, we gather some particulars in regard to the island of Juan Fernandez, the scene of De Foë's famous romance. The letter in question was written by the captain's wife on board an American whaler, which called at the island for a supply of wood and fresh provisions. The writer says:

"Finding, to our delight, a very clear and beautiful morning, we were ready for the boat to take us to shore by eight o'clock. We found a nice landing place, with a few houses close by the shore, and the gentleman who leases the island from the Chilean government, Mr. Alt. de Rode (an enterprising Swiss), met us on the mole and very cordially invited us to his house, and gave us some fresh milk and bread, and the morning air had sharpened our appetites. He then said he would go with us to see the place where Alexander Selkirk (the original Robinson Crusoe) lived so long. When we arrived there a beautiful lunch was set before us, composed of various viands, wines, fruits, etc., while there was nice cool water near by, making it altogether lovely. After an hour or so spent in examining the far-famed locality, we took our leave, well pleased with our visit."

"Mr. De Rode has released the entire island for a period of eight years, and is stocking it with cattle, with which to supply the passing vessels or to ship to the mainland. Fine feed abundantly, and there is an ample supply of fresh water. Wild goats are abundant, and many are consumed by the natives for food, the skins being handed over to the proprietor. There are also a great number of fish in the surrounding waters. The highest part of the island is about three thousand feet.
The climate is tropical, and life in such a place, although of necessity very isolated, will possess all the romantic charm which forever interests the far-off summer resides of the Pacific ocean."

—The bill boards are being covered with showy paper for Wallack's combination which is to be here on the 19th and 20th.
—If it be necessary for a soldier to have a military bearing, it is no less necessary for a traveling man to have a brass bearing.
—The Rev. A. L. Royce will return from his vacation this week, and there will be the usual services at Christ Church next Sunday.
—The funeral services of Mrs. James Cleveland will be held to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the residence of her son-in-law Mr. John Gowdy.
—Those walks in the city park don't seem to have much use. They are not handsome to look upon, and there seems to be no desire among the promenaders to tread upon them.
—Charles E. Cummings and Dr. G. H. McCauley intend starting this evening for a ten days shoot. They will go first to Clear Lake, and then proceed to Albert Lea, Minnesota, and vicinity.
—The First Methodist church took and Sunday school children went to Crystal Springs to-day for a picnic. The grounds were a little damp this morning but soon dried up enough to be very pleasant.
—Lawrence, Atwood & Lowell is the name of the new hardware firm which is getting ready to do business in the store next to Croft & Sherer's. Their stock is being put in shape as fast as possible.
—Curt Treat, now of the Racine Daily News, while out late the other night, lost $50 which dropped out of his vest pocket. He isn't the first editor that has lost money, but they don't generally drop it in that way.
—Friday, the 15th of August, is a holiday of obligation for Catholics. The church celebrates on that day the Assumption of the blessed Virgin Mary. There will be services at St. Mary's church at 6 and 10 o'clock a. m. Vespers at 3 o'clock p. m.
—A quack case was before Justice Prichard this morning, it being the complaint of Mrs. Larkin against Mrs. Walitz for killing two geese. Mrs. Walitz in turn complained of Mrs. Larkin for using abusive language, but after having her arrested dropped the case.
—To-night at Lappin's Music Hall the Amphion Quartet will give "Box and Cox." The quartet appeared at Broadhead last night and at Monroe the night previous. The tickets have been placed at the low price of twenty-five cents, and ten cents extra for reserved seats.
—Dr. Sequoah, of Milwaukee, known as "The Pale-Faced Medicine Man," arrived to-day at the Peabody house, and will remain here a month. Anybody desiring to consult him can do so without charge. He has a large rush of business in Milwaukee and Madison, and his rooms will doubtless be thronged here.
—Dr. Mow is in the city again. He reports crops on his Iowa farm as excellent, and is much pleased with the prospects. Mr. Edwards has a farm near his and is also doing nicely. The Doctor says he met R. T. Pender there a few days ago. Dr. Mow will remain here ten days or so and when he returns will take his family with him.
—The Amphion quartet at Broadhead last night were greeted by a very slim audience owing to the rain which came down in torrents. Those who did turn out had their money refunded, and then had the pleasure of listening to some quartet music for which they had to pay nothing. The quartet will visit Broadhead again next Monday night and are promised a full house then.
—The Milwaukee trotting meeting which was to have been held on the 25th inst., and succeeding days, has been declared off, owing to the fact that many of the speedy horses, which were to be there entered the Eastern circuit, and will not appear. This will be a disappointment to many, and gives occasion for some charges and counter-charges of bad faith among the horsemen.

The Knights appear in the number of forty, and presented a very showy appearance. Their uniforms are chivalric and they make a very dashing, though not gaudy, showing. The Knights are strong not only in numbers but in make up, the lodge embracing many of the leading men of the city. It has shown wonderful growth and prosperity, and promises still better things in the future.

During the thunder storm last night two stacks of wheat and oats on the farm of Mr. John Lake, in La Prairie, were struck and burned. Mr. Lake knew nothing of it until this morning when he found the smoldering remains. A number of other stacks were but a few rods distant but they escaped damage.

THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE & EVENSON, DRUGGISTS.
The thermometer at 6 o'clock last evening stood at 80 degrees above; at 1 o'clock a. m. to-day at 65 degrees above; at 7 o'clock a. m. at 68 degrees above, and at 1 o'clock p. m. at 76 degrees above. Cloudy but clearing.
One year ago to-day at 7 o'clock a. m. the thermometer stood at 69 degrees above and at 2 o'clock p. m. at 84 degrees above. The indications to-day are: partly cloudy weather and local rains, with slight changes in temperature; in the eastern portions slowly falling barometer, and in the western portions slowly rising barometer.

SAD SIGHT.

For several days past there has been a woman strolling about the streets bearing in her arms a little babe. She claims to be from Milwaukee, and says her husband is an engineer on some railroad. Most of the time since she has been noticed here she has been under the influence of strong drink, and yesterday was in worse shape than ever, being too drunk to care for herself or babe. She was consequently locked up in the jail, and there showed last night that she was bordering close upon the frenzies. She fancied that someone was crawling through the window of her cell, and she at times would scream out with fright at the hideous sights she imagined she saw in her presence. She gives a dozen different names for herself, so that it is almost impossible to tell which is the correct one.

DISAPPOINTED BURGLARS.

On Saturday night last burglars secured an entrance to the residence of Mr. E. A. Douglass, of Hanover, and searched the house thoroughly, taking away with them, however, only a hat, a pair of pants, and some minor articles, of small value probably in comparison to what they were after. They then went to the barn, and got down from the pegs a part of a double harness, when they were disturbed by the dog, whose barking aroused Mr. Douglass, who went out to the barn to see what was the matter. The fellows vanished before he got there. It seems probable that the burglars expected to get some money, as the day before Mr. Douglass was talking of purchasing a horse, and carelessly showed a hundred dollars or more which he had in his overalls' pocket. On returning to his home he pulled off his overalls and thoughtlessly left them hanging in the woodshed with the money still in the pocket, where anybody could have as easily got it as though it was out of doors. The burglars ransacked all the pockets of the clothing in the house, but did not think of examining the only garment which was lined with money.

PARLOR PLEASURES.

A Brilliant Party Given Last Evening by Miss Mattie McKee.

Last evening a brilliant assemblage of young folks gathered at the residence of Mrs. Edward McKee on South Main street, the event being a party given by Miss Mattie McKee, a niece of Mrs. McKee, in honor of her friend, Mrs. Nellie Smith, a charming society belle of Waupun, and Mrs. Belle Scofield, one of Milwaukee's fair ones. It was the intention to devote the beautiful lawn about the residence to the enjoyment of the guests, but the rain which fell in torrents prevented this, and the enjoyment of the occasion was concentrated within doors, the spacious parlors being decorated with floral ornaments arranged with rare skill. Anderson's orchestra discoursed sweet music, which was responded to in dance by the merry throng. Between the hours of eleven and twelve a sumptuous supper was served in the dining room. This was elaborately prepared, and heartily relished by the guests. For the excellent ice cream and all the company are indebted to Mr. Schurtz, the popular caterer. The reception of the large party was gracefully accomplished by Mrs. Mattie McKee, who was unflinching in graceful attention to her guests, and all who were fortunate enough to accept the hospitality, will cherish the event and ever remember her with kindest recollections. The following are some of the more elaborate costumes displayed on the occasion:

Pre-eminent

as an elegant hair dressing stands Parker's Hair Balsam, deservedly popular for the beautiful hair it produces, and its cleansing and healing properties. Commencing at the root, it promotes a luxuriant growth of young hair and unfailingly restores a gray or faded hair to its original youthful color, giving soft, rich and lustrous appearance of great beauty. It is pleasantly cooling to the scalp, cleanses it from dandruff, cures itching and humors, and stops falling of the hair. It is perfectly harmless, exquisitely perfumed, never soils the skin or gums the hair, and pleases everybody by its many excellent and attractive qualities. A patent assures us that he has used 12 different hair preparations and that Parker's Hair Balsam surpasses them all. Sold in large bottles at only 50 cents and $1.00 by all first class druggists.

CITY NOTICES.

When we reflect that a power of endurance can be imparted to the brain, and that weak minds have been restored to strength by Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, we cannot but conclude that the subtle power is really ponderable matter. Persons who study hard should preserve their balance of power by using the Syrup.

GENERAL EFFECTS OF
FELLOWS'
Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

"It is Perfectly Safe, and the Taste Pleasant."

THE first apparent effect is to increase the appetite. It assists digestion, and causes the food to assimilate properly—thus the system is nourished. It also, by its tonic action on the digestive organs, induces more copious and regular evacuations, thus the system is purified. It is such a tonic that easy expectoration is produced; not only are the air passages easily voided of the secretion already deposited, but its collection is carried on in a healthy manner, while the formation of tubercle is retarded. The rapidity with which patients take on flesh while under the influence of the Syrup, is proof positive that no other preparation can be better adapted to help and nourish the constitution, and hence be more efficacious in all depression of spirits, shaking or trembling of the hands or body, cough, shortness of breath, or consumptive habit. The nerves and muscles become strengthened and the blood purified.

Speedily and permanently cures Congestion of the Lungs, Bronchitis, Consumption, Nervous Prostration, Shortness of Breath, Catarrhs of the Heart, Trembling of the Hands and Limbs, Physical and Mental Depression, Loss of Appetite, Loss of Energy, Loss of Memory. It will rapidly improve the weakened functions and organs of the body, which depend for health upon voluntary, semi-voluntary and involuntary nervous action. It acts with vigor, gentleness, and sublimity owing to the exquisite harmony of its ingredients, skin to pure blood health. Its taste is pleasant, and its effects permanent.
